Volunteers of America Chesapeake Adds Two Employees to Growing Leadership Team

Lanham, MD - (April 13, 2010) - Volunteers of America Chesapeake is pleased to announce the addition of two members to its leadership team. Kimberly Todman was named Director of Benefits and Compensation for the human services organization and Linnette Bradley joined the non-profit as Operations Manager.

Todman, who has more than 16 years of human resources experience, will oversee the non-profit's benefits, compensation and payroll functions as co-head of the Human Resources Department.

Prior to joining Volunteers of America Chesapeake, Todman served in similar capacities at Advanced Resource Technologies, Global Professional Solutions and Mattress Discounters. She holds a bachelors degree in journalism/public relations from Bowie State University and received a human resources management certification from George Mason University. She also holds a professional human resources certification from the Society of Human Resources Management.

As Operations Manager, Bradley will manage and oversee operations for the administrative office and the Executive Team. She also serves as liaison between program directors and the administrative office on policies and procedures; Volunteers of America Chesapeake's Core Service Excellence Standards, performance satisfaction surveys and is the point of contact and Executive Assistant for Volunteers of America Chesapeake's Board of Directors.

Bradley has more than 15 years experience in office management and administration. Most recently she spent the past two years with Children's National Medical Center, handling administrative operations, billing and customer service for the D.C. KIDS Program. She is also a member of the American Health Information Management Association, the National Association of Female Executives and is a licensed realtor.
